Format

Activities for the program are divided into morning and afternoon sessions. Mornings will include field trips to museums, visits to architecture offices and classes devoted to drawing. Afternoon sessions are set aside for studio work.

During our two-week program, you will initiate and work on an architectural design, developing it for a final review.

Weekend field trips will include visits to some of the finest architecture in the St. Louis region including the Gateway Arch by Eero Saarinen and the Pulitzer Foundation for the Arts by Tadao Ando.

Fees

Estimated cost is $2,130. An additional $225 should be budgeted to cover the cost of books, supplies, equipment, and some model-making materials. If a student withdraws from the program after classes begin, no portion of tuition will be refunded.

Staying on Campus

You will live in one of our secure modern residence houses with other members of pre-college programs. There are study rooms, kitchenettes, laundry facilities, and floor lounges. Resident Advisors (RAs) living in the halls provide advice, information, social planning, and will ensure that the rules and regulations of the program are maintained. A meal plan will allow you to enjoy a variety of food choices available across the campus.

Application Process

Applications must be postmarked by March 1, 2010. Space is limited. Please send the following materials:

1. Completed application form.
2. Statement of interest in the program—approximately 100 words.
3. A letter of recommendation from an academic teacher, art teacher, principal, high school counselor, or artist/architect who knows you well.
4. Official high school transcript (most current).
5. Copies of official PSAT, SAT or ACT scores.
6. A check, made payable to Washington University in St. Louis, for a $30 non-refundable processing fee. You will be notified upon acceptance and a deposit will be required to confirm your admission to the program.

The Architecture Discovery Program is an exciting introduction to architecture and design for students between junior and senior year of high school. Design studio, the heart of the program, focuses upon how creativity and discovery can foster passion and compassion in design. You will also learn how sustainability and the importance of the environment are shaping the practice of architecture. If you are interested in architecture and the environment, this program is for you.

“I truly enjoyed my experience at ADP. It prepared me for college level work and introduced me to new people and new perspectives.”—former ADP student
